

Child Public Health 2021

Professional development program

Date: 21, 22, 23, 26, 27, 28 July 2021 (6 days)

Due to the changing Covid 19 situation, this year's subject is planned to be presented to students as a face-face-face experience and/or in online format via the University's Learning Management System Canvas. The 6-day intensive commences on Wednesday 21st July 2021. This lecture/groupwork component of the subject finishes on Wednesday 28th 2021.

Venue: Online/face to face details being finalised.

Learn about the factors that influence children's health, development, wellbeing and life course in the Child Public Health professional development program. This program will help you to respond effectively to child public health issues in your community and work environment.

Available as professional development or through the University of Melbourne's Master of Public Health, the program is coordinated by The Royal Children's Hospital Centre for Community Child Health.

Using the ecological model as a framework, you will explore contemporary child health issues including:

- the impact of poverty and disadvantage
- Indigenous issues
- cross-cultural issues
- nutrition
- mental health
- integrated service delivery
- education and care environments
- child-focused policy development.

Lectures are presented by experienced child public health researchers, policy officers and practitioners.

If you have an interest in children's health and wellbeing, public health, community and child health and community paediatrics, this course is a must for you.

Places are limited—register early using the attached form to avoid disappointment!
